

"Wish List" For Future Articles At EpicureanFriends

Table Of Contents

- 1. Physics
- 2. Canonics
- 3. Ethics

There are many topics on which we have only scratched the surface at EpicureanFriends. This is a list of topics that would be particularly desirable to write long-form articles about. We'll curate this list so that it is most effective, so please make suggestions for additions at the separate discussion thread - click here.

1. Physics

1. Article summarizing latest opinions in the scientific community about the age and size of the universe. The forum where this general topic is discussed is here. A Thread for discussion of resources to include and consider in such an article is here.

2. Canonics

1. Article summarizing quotations from Philodemus "On Signs / On Methods of Inference" and Sextus Empiricus to information in Diogenes Laertius, Diogenes of Oinoanda, and Lucretius to create a general summary on Epicurean recommended methods of reasoning.

3. Ethics

1. Article summarizing evidence to show that Cicero was wrong to allege that Epicurus limited the term "pleasure" to bodily pleasures, and showing that contrary to Cicero's assertion, Epicurus in fact held knowledge of literature and history and current events and poetry to be part of the goal of life as designated by the term "pleasure." This is a common allegation and would be very damaging if true - but it's not.
  1. Cicero "On Ends" Book 1:105-106: "What pleasure do you, O Torquatus, what pleasure does this Triarius derive from literature, and history, and the knowledge of events, and the reading of poets, and his wonderful recollection of such numbers of verses? And do not say to me, Why all these things are a pleasure to me. So, too, were those noble actions to the Torquati. Epicurus never asserts this in this manner; nor would you, O Triarius, nor any man who had any wisdom, or who had ever imbibed those principles."
