

Epicurean Friends Bookcase

A member who would like to get a book from the list sends a private message to the owner to ask for the book and to write the address to where the book should be shipped. Then, the owner sends the book, pays the shipping fee and removes the book from the list, and the requestor gets it for free and becomes the new owner of the book. It is up to the owner and the requestor to negotiate different terms.

Preferably, the content of books on the list should be philosophy, science, history, self-help or non-trivial fiction, but there are no restrictions on the content except for spam, partisan politics and material which is restricted by law in some countries such as pornography, calls to commit a crime, or political propaganda of any kind (which is beyond the scope of the EpicureanFriends.com community rules of discussion).

Owner	Book Title	Author	Comments
Martin	Epicurus And The Pleasant Life	Haris Dimitriadis	Available until November 14 and again upon my next return to Germany in 2023